European and Asian CHAMPIONSHIPS

ANOTHER CHINESE RAINFALL OF WORLD RECORDS

Towards the end of 1992, it was the ladies' turn to attract worldwide attention in weightlifting. Both the European Championships, held 4 to 8 November in Loures, Portugal, and the Asian Championships, organised 21 to 23 December in Chiangmai, Thailand, proved that the progress of female weightlifting is unbroken and irresistible. The Asians were once again excellent. When, after the unprecedented 59 world records of the Varna World Championships, we believed that it was not to be outdone, they proved us wrong once again: the Chinese girls at Chiangmai upset the majority of the Varna scores and set up another 31 new world records. Apparently, the reserves of female weightlifting in China are inexhaustible. In the following, we wish to present our Readers with an overview of the 1992 situation, publishing the results of the two Continental Championships contrasting with each other and adding further data from 1992. This time, you are free to draw your own conclusions...
